Belfast (Me) Journal.

A rather sad affair took place on one of our streets the other day. A young lady with her arms full of bundles emerged from a dry goods store when one of them fell on the sidewalk without her noticing it. Just behind her was a young man—a Belfast young man who is not polite is not anything—and he quickly stepped forward to pick it up. Now a bundle done up in a piece of paper with a dry-goods advertisement on it is apparently as harmless as a mother's spanking; and there it lay as guileless as an angleworm, on a sidewalk after a rain. Just as he stooped to pick it up there was a rustling of paper, the twist began to come out of the ends and in another instant a bright red thing—a sort of a cross between a balloon and a devil fish—flew into the air before his eyes, and a No. 10, thirty-six-inch, double-jointed, duplex, elliptic, steel-bowed, bustle-attachment, dollar-and-a-half, red-headed hoopskirt waltzed around and gyrated and opened and shut up and fell on the walk as flat and thin as a restaurant pie; and the young man straightened himself up, looking as if he wished the tail of comet No. 2 would sweep him from this fair land, and the young lady came back with a face that resembled a sunset on a 50 cent chromo, and she picked up the wire contrivance and then she went toward the east and he went toward the west and the sun ducked his head behind a cloud to hide a smile, and three or four looked on, laid down and laughed and doubled themselves up in a manner that would have made a mess of green apples hang their heads in shame.

In a fight, Joshua and Samuel Shipley, brothers, and Anton Weckemyer, all fell from the third story of a house on German street, Baltimore, by the breaking of a scaffold, and all were seriously hurt. Weckemyer died from the result of his injuries.

Bethlehem, Pa., claims the distinction of possessing the oldest hand fire-engine in the country. It was built by Brooks, of London, nearly 200 years ago, and imported by the Moravians of Bethlehem. It has probably squirted more water where it wasn't needed and was a positive damage than any other machine in America.

New York has a cat that is a natural ventriloquist, and when it wants fun it just yowls so that the noise appears to come from a room across the alley, and the occupant of that room thinks the very Mephistopheles is to pay when a shower of bootjacks, soap dishes, hair brushes, etc., come crashing in upon him.

When you see a prominent citizen, a bright and shining light in society and an energetic man of business, and all that sort of thing, pause in the middle of the sidewalk and gaze about him with a glassy look in his eye, you needn't think of apoplexy and paralysis. He is simply trying to remember an errand his wife told him to do.

Mr. John G. Whittier, in a recent letter, suggests that anything like a military parade at the Philadelphia bi-centennial is as much out of keeping with the memory of Penn and the work he did as anything well could be. Mr. Whittier does not suggest what would be appropriate; but we would suggest that swindling a band of Indians by giving them a few beads and jack-knives in exchange for valuable property would be very suggestive of Mr. Penn.

Being an eastern man, a sojourner in Chicago, who bought a pint of aconite, labelled it "poison," and left it on the shelf in his room. And, of course, the porter at once knew it was liquor, as they always label a liquor bottle in that way out West, in hopes of protecting it, so he took a drink and died, and the coroner's jury convicted the Eastern man of criminal carelessness in leaving a bottle so delusively labelled where folks would get hold of it.

Testimony of Experts.

An action was brought by an attorney-at-law against his client to recover $2,000 for legal services, and in proving the value of these services he put upon the stand as witnesses five fellow-attorneys, who estimated their value from $5,440 to $1,000. The plaintiff recovered a judgment of $1,800, the Court having charged the jury that they should find their verdict on the testimony of the attorneys, and the defendant carried the case up to the Supreme Court of the United States. In this case, Head vs. Hargrave, that court, in April, reversed the judgment. Mr. Justice Field, in the opinion, said:

"The evidence of experts as to the value of professional services does not differ in principle from such evidence as to the value of labor in other departments of business, or as to the value of property. So far from laying aside their general knowledge and ideas, the jury should have applied that knowledge and those ideas to the matters of fact in evidence in determining the weight to be given to the opinions expressed, and it was only in that way that they could arrive at a just conclusion. While they cannot act in any case upon particular facts material to its disposition resting in their private knowledge, but should be governed by the evidence adduced, they may, and to act intelligently they must, judge of the weight and force of that evidence by their own general knowledge of the subject of inquiry. If, for example, the question were as to the damages sustained by plaintiff from a fracture of his leg by the carelessness of a defendant, the jury would ill perform their duty, and probably come to a wrong conclusion, if, controlled by the testimony of the surgeons not merely as to the injury inflicted, but as to the damages sustained, they should ignore their own knowledge and experience of the value of a sound limb. Other persons beside professional men have knowledge of the value of professional services, and, while great weight should always be given to the opinions of those familiar with the subject, they are not to be blindly received, but are to be intelligently examined by the jury in the light of their own general knowledge; they should control only as they are found to be reasonable."—Bradstreet.

An Invasion by Ants.

The invasion of the Island of Grenada by ants of the saccharivora species, about a hundred years ago, was quite Homeric in its magnitude. "They descended from the hills," we are told, "like torrents, and the plantations, as well as every path and road for miles, were filled by them. Rats, mice, and reptiles of every kind became an easy prey to them; and even the birds, which they attacked whenever they alighted on the ground in search of food, were so harassed as to be at length unable to resist them. Streams of water opposed only a temporary obstacle to their progress, the foremost rushing blindly on to certain death, and fresh armies instantly following, till a bank was formed of the carcasses of those which were drowned sufficient to dam up the waters and allow the main body to pass over in safety. Even fire was tried without effect. When it was lighted to arrest their route they rushed into the blaze in such myriads as to extinguish it." Such was the devastation caused by these little invaders that a reward of twenty thousand pounds was offered, and in vain, for their destruction, and they were not got rid of until a deluge of rain fell and swept them away.—London Telegraph.

Public Speaking.

The Hon. John G. Carlisle will address the people of this city and county at the court house in Maysville, on Thursday evening, October 26th, at 7 o'clock. Everybody is invited to come and hear this distinguished Democrat.

The Government court officers have gotten new and important evidence in the Star Route cases which will be used with good effect at the coming trials.

COL. HURT speaks at Vanceburg to-day. His prospects in Lewis county are very bright. It is said he will receive the votes of many of the Republicans there.

THE Portsmouth (O.) Blade says:

William McBride, who captured the wife of Geo. Boot, of Lewis county, Ky., and brought her to Portsmouth, left here for Mason county, Ky., on Tuesday, after a short residence in this and Jackson counties. The boys made it too warm for William in this vicinity.

THE Lexington Press says:

Should the Circuit Judge require troops on the removal of Ellis Craft for trial to Catlettsburg, the governor will order a detail of ten men each from the Lexington and other companies, and the best soldiers of the guards are just itching to be chosen for the duty.

Much of the house burning of tobacco complained of by the farmers in this neighborhood is due to overcrowding the barns—something that might have been avoided.

The cattle disease is still spreading at Paris, and nothing as yet tried is of any avail to check its force. It is not confined to one locality, as was first supposed; it is now pretty general through the section that lies within a radius of five miles of that city.

In the harvest of 1882 our country had to its credit 480,000,000 bushels of oats, 20,000,000 bushels of rye, 45,000,000 bushels of barley, 11,000,000 of buckwheat, and about 160,000,000 bushels of potatoes. The wheat product, as already stated, is over 500,000,000 bushels. The corn crop is estimated at 1,680,000,000 bushels.

The Republican National Committee have arranged to send home all voters employed in the departments at Washington, who claim residence in the states which have not yet held elections. In the meantime the Hubbell squeezing process is being vigorously applied to the office-holders of every station in the country.

An exchange prints the following as a certain cure for diphtheria

For an adult take a pellet of camphor gum the size of a pea into the mouth and let it dissolve. In three hours repeat the same until three pellets have been taken, though great care must be taken not to chew the gum, but let it dissolve. Three it is claimed will generally effect a cure, but if a bad case take one more in four or five hours. If for children give a little liquid camphor diluted with sweetened water once every hour until relief is obtained.

The stock of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad seems to be a desirable security to hold. The net earnings for August were forty-five per cent. of the gross receipts. It is stated on the authority of one of the company's officers that hereafter the monthly net earnings will not fall below $100,000, and within eighteen months will exceed $200,000; and moreover, steel rails for a double track will be bought without interfering with the net earnings.

A Portland dispatch says: The strike on the Northern Pacific Railroad has ended. All the men have to work.

For the DAILY BULLETIN. ALL THE WORLD A BARBER SHOP.

Our notions rightly kettled up,
And none a doubt can harbor;
That all the world's a barber shop,
And every man a barber.

Mechanics, they are barbers all,
Nor lackeys at the play, sir,
They lather when for work they call,
And shave you of the pay, sir.

The merchant, he's a barber too,
And who than him surpasses,
He lathers with fine calico
And shaves the beardless lasses.

The doctor, he's a barber too,
And lathers with a pill, sir,
Many applicants or few
He shaves them of a bill, sir.

Our Congressmen lately have Assumed a barber's station,
And without money tried to shave
With double compensation.

The printer, honest wight alone,
Tho' very close and saving,
Content to pick a hungry bone.

Has got no knack at shaving.
But of all the suds bedaubing host,
With razors whet the keenest,
The lawyers lathers folks the most
And shaves mankind the cleanest.

Examining Trial of George Cooper for Killing Charles Insko.

The examining trial of George Cooper, charged with the murder of Charles Insko on the fair grounds at Germantown, last Saturday, was begun Wednesday afternoon, (18th inst.) before Esquires Grant and Pepper, and, at the Mayor's office in this city. A very large crowd was in attendance.

The first witness sworn was Miss Lucretia Mingua, the young lady who was with Insko when the shooting took place. The substance of her testimony is as follows,
to-wit:

I live in Bracken county, was well acquainted with Insko, know defendant's face, but am not acquainted with him. I was at the fair Friday and heard Insko talking to them. I was with Insko. He asked Cooper's wife if she would take a promenade with Mr. Neville. "She said what do you mean?" He said, "I mean will you promenade with Neville." Cooper then asked him what he meant by that. Insko said,
"I meant just what I said." Insko had gone with defendant's wife, when single. He didn't mean anything—he was talking in fun—was with Insko, the rest of the day—was with him
Saturday all day, except half hour after dinner.
Insko, myself and sister were walking on promenade Saturday evening, saw Cooper and his wife in front of us. Insko, was between us and we had hold of his arms. We turned to the right to go down the steps, I was between Cooper and Insko, just after that I heard a shot and Insko fell, and then a second shot. I heard no words between them. They were not in speaking distance, about five feet from each other.

Cross examined:

Lived in Mason county, last winter with C.
Ellis near Fern Leaf, am 18 years old, my sister is 25, met Mr. Insko, last fair, he was with me a great deal, he continued his visits when convenient, I met him at the fair Thursday, was with him all day, same Friday and Saturday until the killing, had no knowledge of his drinking. Did not hear him curse Cooper and call him a d—b—and say he could whip him. Met them several times again during the day, Insko did not make any threats or use any insulting language while with me. Did not see Insko playing cards on fair grounds, know nothing of his having a weapon. The shooting took place late in the evening, it was at head of steps, opposite cottage, there are 8 or 10 steps, saw Cooper standing near banisters with his wife. Lave Brothers was with us, we were four abreast, did not see Joe Insko. Have heard he killed a man, saw Joe Insko on the grounds that day but did not see him at time of killing. Did not see Willis Insko at time of shooting. Did not notice particularly who was present.

Willis Insko was next sworn and testified:

I live in Bracken county, am 32 years old,
not acquainted with the defendant, I am a brother of deceased. I saw a shooting affray on Saturday evening, on the promenade at the fair grounds, I was standing on second steps, steps that lead up into counting gallery looking for my brother was getting ready to start home. Saw my brother and two ladies coming round the promenade, some man was with them, I paid no attention as to who all were present. They turned to go down steps when Cooper shot my brother. Saw him start from banister with pistol in his hand. He circled and got behind my brother. He stuck the pistol close to, or against back part of my brother's head and fired—no words had passed between them, two shots were fired—my brother was down on the floor when defendant fired second shot. His head was nearly between defendant's feet.

Cross examined:

Have not been at home for five years. Been living in Indiana. Was at work on a farm. I was living in Robertson county before I went to Indiana. Was going home with my brother that evening. I saw Joe Insko at the fair.
Went there with him. Did not see him at time of the shooting. Miss Mingua was on extreme left, my brother was next, Miss Mingua's sister next, and some man next to her four abreast.
After second shot I went to my brother. I struck defendant about that time and took the pistol from him when he fell. He fell on his back. Cooper's wife tried to pull me away from her husband.

Theodric Owens was sworn and said:

I live near Germantown, I have seen defendant, saw nothing of the shooting heard no words between the parties. I assisted in washing and dressing the deceased about 1 o'clock
we found no weapon on him, found $14 or $15, a trunk key, and shoe button, saw deceased before that at a distance some persons were carrying him down to the cottage. Wound was on the right side above and below the ear, saw the hole in his head and hat. The hat was powder-burnt. He was also shot in the right hand.

Leslie Mannen, being sworn testified:

I reside near Germantown, am acquainted with Cooper, did not know Insko, saw no part of the shooting. I was 20 or 30 yards from where it took place, was between the dining hall and amphitheater. I went to the place, defendant had pistol in his hand. It was still smoking, some young man ran up and grabbed the pistol and said G—d—d—m him he has killed my brother, and cocked it but I grabbed his hand and shoved him back in the crowd and kept him from shooting. I think it was Insko's brother, Insko was shot in top of his head, near right ear.

Elisha Moran, being sworn testified as follows, to-wit:

I was at the fair Saturday I am not acquainted with Cooper or Insko, was just starting up steps when the shooting took place. Didn't hear a word—when first shot was fired I looked up, Insko was falling. Saw Cooper have a pistol in his hand. Insko sank down and then fell backwards. Didn't hear a word, was at the bottom of the steps.

Insko didn't show any signs of life after I go-to him. He fell near the edge of the promenade about the center of the steps. Didn't see Cooper till he fired second shot. He was in stooping position and looked like he was trying to shoot Insko in the breast. His wife threw her arms around him. When I first saw him he was at the right of Insko. Saw the wound. It was on the right side high up.
Promenade is 8 or 10 feet wide.

Mrs. Worthington was next sworn, and testified:

I live in Mason county. Don't know either party. I was at the fair that day. Heard a pistol shot, looked up and saw a man falling.
After that I heard a second shot. That is all I know of it. Can't recognize any of the parties.
They were nearer one end of the steps than the other. Didn't see man who did shooting.
Only heard shots.

Dr. H. K. Adamson next testified as follows, to wit:

I was at the fair. Saw the smoke but didn't see the shooting. I was on the promenade.
The shooting was 20 or 30 feet in front of me.
When I got there Cooper and wife were going down the steps with some man. Thought Cooper was the one shot. Examined him and found no wound. Saw Insko first on style.
He died shortly after I got to him. He was shot in the back part of the head through the brain. It was a large wound. Blood and brain tissues were oozing from it. His heart was beating very feebly when I got to him. He did not live very long afterwards.

Michael Harmon was next sworn, and
testified:

I live in Bracken county. Have known Cooper all his life. He is about 23 years old.
Didn't see the trouble at the fair grounds. Saw Cooper Saturday morning. He came to my house and asked for my son John's revolver.
I got it and gave it to him. Told him to be careful and not shoot any one or meet with any accident. Didn't ask him what he wanted with it. Didn't hear him say what he intended to do with it.

The court here adjourned till 10 o'clock
Thursday morning. All the witnesses have been subpoenaed to appear before the grand jury Friday, 20th inst.

AN ARAB DHOW.

Imagine a curiously shaped boat, partially covered in, high in the stern and low at the bow, suggesting to a nervous mind a treacherous purpose of diving beneath the first advancing wave. There is a very heavy lateen sail held up by rotten ropes, which occasionally startle the crew and passengers by breaking and letting their whole burden crash down upon deck. The water leaks in at every point indiscriminately, requiring four men to bale night and day. There are eighty passengers, where according to Western notions, thirty would be a superabundant cargo. From stem to stern there rises a combination of abominable smells truly sickening; the rotting wood of the dhow, the accumulated grease and filth of years, the bilge-water, and the effluvia from the perspiring skins of the crowded negroes—all contribute their quota to an effect which words cannot describe. Such were the horrors which awaited me as the dhow left Mikindany behind. When at last my usual attack of sea-sickness laid me low, I really felt that that otherwise unwelcome sensation might sometimes be reckoned a boon and a blessing. The worst, however, was yet to come. As night set in I crept with some difficulty into my camp bedstead, which we had contrived to stow under a sort of after-deck (there was only about eight inches between my nose and the flooring overhead.) I had just begun to doze off when an uneasy consciousness of strange sensations dawned upon me. Soon I was made only too painfully certain of the presence of some of the most objectionable companions of man in all lands. One well-known species swarmed over me with pertinacious purpose; another kind of a more lively nature, in their excitement at the discovery of a thin-skinned subject—a decided variety from the leathery nigger integument—skipped about with playful glee, prospecting here and there as the humor suggested; then, to crown the whole, before I left that wretched bunk, a creeping sensation set in about the roots of my hair, which at first made me imagine it was about to stand on end with horror of my situation, but which, alas! turned out to be a still more real aggravation of my tortures.—Good Words.

—"What Ails This Heart of Mine," is the heading of a story that is going the rounds of the papers. We suppose he saw his girl out riding with another fellow. There is nothing that makes the heart get up and pound ribs and carom on the other vital parts, and jump up and down like a churn-dasher, and then get tired and keep so still you think it has stopped beating forever, as to see your girl out riding with another fellow, we are told.—Peck's Sun.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.
Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors. DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO. Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. j27d.
